The Only Question.

Strange, isn't it, that when a man, or more particularly a newspaper, becomes interested in a public question, so many of them become possessed of the idea that it is the only question before the American people.

Take for instance, a newspaper specially advocating "tariff reform," and such a paper earnestly argues that "tariff reform" is the only political issue before the country, and that if political parties are not aligned on the tariff there is no alignment at all, &c., that the people recognize no other issue, &c., &c.

Take the Temperance question, and the prohibition paper with sincere and honest vehemence that prohibition is the all absorbing, and in fact the only question to be considered, that the cause is growing—just ready to sweep the country, &c.

It is even so with the labor papers.

And with many of the religious papers. The whole truth, this is a great big country, too big to be entirely absorbed, in, or agreed upon, any one question, however important that question may be. So when you hear any man arguing that a certain question is the only issue, &c., set him down as, perhaps, an earnest good man, but a one idea fellow.

"What has Stone done in Congress," do you ask? The answer is that he has introduced 41 useful bills, as the Congressional Record shows; he has proposed amendments and constant labor on the committees to which he is assigned; and won the confidence of the heads of Departments and his fellow members, to a degree of commanding influence. This is a pretty fair record for a member serving his first session.

Stick to the Democratic party, no matter what may be your opinion on the tariff, temperance, labor bill, &c., for say what you may, it is the only organized political party on earth that consistently fights monopolies, demands equal privileges for all and exclusive privileges to none; and at all times favors the largest liberty to the individual citizen.

"That grand old man, as the English delight to call Gladstone, appears to be moved under the fire of the Irish Home Rule bill. If Gladstone was in this country, the COURIER would class him as a grand old democrat of the Allen G. Thurman style! And being a Democrat, he will never be heard of as well as victory."

EX. PRESIDENT HAYS, has been making speeches censuring Cleveland for vetoing pension bills. Cleveland only vetoes the improper ones, and has the courage to do this unflinchingly. The Republican want to excite the Soldier vote against, but the true soldier will back the President in vetoing "frauds" whether in the shape of pension or other matters.

When William S. Holman returned to Washington from Indiana after his nomination and reported that the Cleveland reelection bonfire had felled in that State, he only fired a snort gun, and by 1888 the full battle will be won with Cleveland on every Democratic banner.

SENATOR WARNER, addresses the graduating class at Union college the other day, advised the boys that they should take an active interest in politics—party politics. Said he:

"You will be told by the modern political philosopher, who is too independent and good to be led by either party, but who forces on both, that the way to purify a party is to desert and desert it."

Is Gen. Buckner a Democrat?

General S. B. Buckner, whose name is prominently canvassed as a candidate for Governor, has written a letter to the Frankfort Capital replying to certain charges, or reports, to the effect, that he was not really a devotee of the Democratic ticket since the war. The report as circulated was to the effect that Gen. Buckner owned large property in Chicago, and that practically his home was in that city, &c. Below we print some extracts from his reply.

St. Louis, Mo., June 21, 1888.

Mr. George T. Wright, Editor of the Capital, Frankfort, Ky.—Dear Sir: I have just received your letter of the 19th inst., inviting me to contribute to a paragraph circulating in the press to the effect that I had not cast a vote during the last seventeen years, and that, in fact, I am not much of a Kentuckian.

I have seen statements similar to those contained in the slip which you have sent me, and I feel called upon, until you have received a statement from me, to give you attention to the numerous misstatements so destitute of foundation. The facts are sufficiently known to the community amongst whom I reside, and the poll-books of Louisville, of which place I was a citizen until 1872, and of Hart County, where I have since resided, show that my vote has been regularly recorded during the period mentioned, with the exception of a few times when absent on important business.

It is my misfortune, doubtless, not to be known to the gentlemen who circulated these misstatements without caring to investigate records which will refute their statements, and equally my misfortune to be ignorant of the standard by which they measure their statements. But I believe, in every general impression, prevalent among the people, and in fact, in this and in many other States, that I am very much of a Kentuckian, however unworthy I may be to claim to be a citizen of a State which can boast of so many more distinguished sons. I am, sir, very truly yours,

S. B. BUCKNER.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hon. James B. Beck, member of Congress from the Ashland district, did not vote on the passage of the bill which contained a salary grant. But I believe a story that Crossland, who was then a member of Congress from the First Kentucky district, was inveigled into voting for the bill by Beck. Crossland did not know what was in the bill, and Beck if he had any objectionable appropriations, Beck absented him from the bill, and Beck voted for it. Afterward, when he learned of the salary grant, Beck was indignant, and the record, found that Beck had dodged the vote. Crossland became furiously jealous, and went to Beck, shaking his fist in the latter's face, denounced him as the traitor of taxation, and was so angry, and Crossland went back to private life.

This may be true, but Senator Beck was Crossland's most devoted friend, and since Crossland's death has proven his friendship to his family.

The Republican member of Congress from the Cairo District says that "it would be as well to give Mr. Cleveland $25,000 a year for clerk hire, abolish Congress, and let him run things without annoyance," &c. This sarcasm is left off, because of Cleveland's numerous virtues. Well, it must be admitted that the President has a head of his own, but he has saved the tax-payers $25,000,000 on the first year's run, and we guess the people understand the sarcasm.

Opposition to Stone.
From the Kansas Standard.
So far Capt. Stone is the only man in the Senate who has been defeated in this district, and those who claim to have surveyed the field say he was the only one who the Republicans name a man, which is very probable, since orders were given to the members to make a strict party fight all along the line. This does not mean that the President is a Republican, who will make the race as an independent. Capt. Dapostol is a very clever gentleman, but he will hardly be elected to Congress by a big majority.

Gov. KNOTT's reply to a Louisville correspondent said "I am not a candidate for any office under the sun."

A Cold Blooded Murder.

Last Saturday at the home of J. M. Durham, at Bledso, in the eastern portion of this county, a foul murder was committed. The victim was James I. Barber, a stranger in the county, who was the guest of the three, with James I. Barber, were engaged in a game of cards, playing for whisky. Brown had lost, and a dispute arose about the payment for a pint of liquor, a scuffle ensued, when Brown has ordered to leave the house. He quietly submitted and proceeded to leave. The Durhams, with pistols, followed him to the public road, seeing that his pursuers intended to kill him, he turned and fired at them and begged for his life. Holding his knife in his hand he was shot in the chest, and he fell, and if he would spare his life he might have it. With this James Durham fired three shots in rapid succession, all of which took effect, and following those three shots, he fired a fourth, which pierced the victim's heart, killing him outright. It is said that one of the Durhams would have a rapid succession, all of which took effect, and following those three shots, he fired a fourth, which pierced the victim's heart, killing him outright. It is said that one of the Durhams would have a rapid succession, all of which took effect, and following those three shots, he fired a fourth, which pierced the victim's heart, killing him outright.
